if the farmers belong to kolkhozy. Bunkers are being set up under 25X1 the barns and stables of deported farmers and are called "bunkers of the defenders of the nation". The bunkers are two meters wide, four meters long, and one and a half meters high (sic).

5. The partisans attack traitors, the number of whom is presently increasing because the Lithuanians do not believe that the Americans will make war against the Soviets. The partisans have no pity for traitors, but they never kill them without a trial. Persons who talk too much are punished by the partisans by having their buttocks scraped or by being flogged 10 or 15 times.

Deportations and Arrests

The first persons chosen for deportation were those in the habit of attending church.

the Russians think that prayer is the main means of expressing dissatisfaction with Stalin and the Soviet system. Consequently, those who pray are arrested as agents. The Soviet argument when arresting a person for praying is, "If you pray to God, you are begging that the Americans come to Lithuania." Others who were deported in 1951 were kolkhozniki who provided only 80 percent of their contributions.

7. The following technique is used when younger men are arrested by the MVD. During the night, the MVD makes a search of the living quarters of the suspected or betrayed person. If the MVD men find nothing, they take the victim's passport and tell him that it will be returned to him the following day at the MVD office. When the victim goes to the office to obtain his passport, he is told that the MVD has never seen it. They say he is lying and accuse him of giving the passport to the partisans.
